

Newhaven Enterprise Centre teams up with The Prince's Trust to help local young people

The Basepoint Newhaven Enterprise Centre recently teamed up with The Prince's Trust to host a cake sale to raise money to help young people in the area.

The sale, which was organised by Newhaven Prince's Trust's team leader, Tania Hobbs, raised over £70. Natalie Shapcott, Keanna Deveson, and Samantha King baked the cakes for the sale, which went down well with the licensees at the centre.

Claire Duc, centre manager at the Newhaven Enterprise Centre, commented: "We are always happy to get involved with events that will raise money for a good cause. I certainly enjoyed my cake and many of our tenants were pleased to buy a home-made cake to eat on their break. Tania and her team did a great job and I am proud that the centre was able to help The Prince's Trust."

The Enterprise Centre also supports Searchlight, a local charity which provides care for adults with physical and learning difficulties. Earlier in the year, Claire Duc presented Searchlight with a cheque for almost £4,000 and also hosted a fashion show which raised an additional £950.

The Centre is managed by Basepoint Business Centres, who operate 28 centres across the South of England and the Midlands. Basepoint's parent company, The ACT Foundation, is a leading grant making charity which supports projects to help the most vulnerable people in the community.

The Newhaven Enterprise Centre's stunning design and harbour-side location makes this centre a great place to work. Located on Denton Island and adjoining the town centre, there is easy access by road, public transport, and by sea – the town having a regular ferry service to France.
