

WINCHESTER BASEPOINT CENTRE CONSTRUCTION ON TARGET

Construction of the new Basepoint Business Centre in Winchester is nearing completion and is already attracting reservations for the 66 office units that will be available from February (2010). Fareham based Amiri Construction is putting the finishing touches to the exterior of the refurbished existing 4 storey building on the Winnall Valley Road site, and the 4 storey extension as part of the £2 million project. The new building will offer a total of 25,000 sq ft of office space for new and relocating businesses based in the region.

Martin Miller, Senior Project Manager for Basepoint joined Amiri Construction's Grahame Pettit on the roof to perform the traditional topping out ceremony and to view the progress made since work started in April.

"We are delighted with the progress of the 39 week project and we look forward welcoming our first licensees in the new year," said Martin Miller.

Many of Amiri's senior management team are no strangers to the demanding specifications required by Basepoint having built 2 other centres in the south prior to the formation of Amiri Construction. When completed, the Winchester Basepoint centre will be the 26th opened in England.
